The Office of the Provost is accepting applications for Faculty Teaching Fellows for terms beginning in the 2015-2016 Academic Year. Applications will be accepted through April 13, 2015.

Fellows will be chosen from among the following five areas with special consideration for those focused in Experiential Learning and Educational Grants:

1) Undergraduate Research
2) Experiential Learning
3) E-Learning and Distance Education
4) Course Redesign/Pedagogy
5) Educational Grants

The Provost’s Faculty Teaching Fellows will serve two-year terms. Each year, Fellows will present fall and spring workshops, and write two newsletters and two articles (one per semester). Fellows will receive a stipend of $1,000 per year, as well as an additional $250 per year for materials.

The one-page application found on the Provost’s Faculty Development webpage requires a list of relevant expertise, workshop plans and outlines, and a current Curriculum Vita. All applicants must have chair approval before applying.

The Council for Faculty Development will screen all applications and make recommendations to the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs, who will then appoint the Fellows.
