Dear Colleagues,

In the following pages you will see the first public draft of Murray State University’s Strategic Plan.

To help frame this document, I am reminded by a phrase from Daniel Burnham, a leading architect and urban designer in the early 1900s who stated, “Make no little plans....” Our plan is “not little in scope” as it will position us to be known as the best public comprehensive university in the nation.

It is clear to me, as a new member of our University Community, that for the past 93 years, Murray State has created a foundation that is steeped in time-honored traditions and holds a national reputation for academic quality. Therefore, the goal of this plan is not to rebuild or disregard our history and foundation, but rather to build on it and forge our pathway for the next seven years to not only remain among the top comprehensive public universities, but secure our rightful place as one of the select universities that are viewed to be in a class and league of our own when it comes to teaching, learning, scholarship and creative activities and serving our communities.

Our aim is, indeed, to be the best comprehensive university in the nation. This requires us to have the discipline in our thoughts and actions to excel in those endeavors that will move Murray State in that direction. The first step is to focus on our four major initiatives: 1) Advancing a Culture of Academic Excellence; 2) Promoting a Dynamic and Diverse University Community Committed to Student Success; 3) Advancing Knowledge to Benefit Society by Fostering Research, Scholarship, and Creative Activities, and; 4) Improving the Quality of Life for our Communities through Engagement. By focusing on those four strategic initiatives, through the creation of clear objectives and stating specific measures to achieve, we will make significant and meaningful strides in achieving the overall mission of our University and realizing our vision of being “one of the best student-centered, comprehensive universities in the nation.”

Next Steps:

This document is the direct result of countless hours of meetings, discussions, debates, research, thoughts, drafting of ideas and editing, etc. Over 40 University Town Hall and public committee meetings, along with numerous suggestions collected through our web site and suggestion boxes throughout our University helped, frame and form this draft. And this inclusive nature must continue as we move from draft documents to final plans.
As I have stated previously in various meetings and forums, the plan itself is important; however the process that develops it is even more important. You are a part of that process and I look forward to feedback that will be generated.

As you read the following ideas, I know that you will agree with many of the statements and goals; and conversely, there will be those with which you disagree. Please take the time to digest the entire Plan, reflect on these statements, and then provide your thoughts and comments either directly to me, or to anyone involved in this process through our extensive committee structure. Your comments are not only welcome, but expected. Please visit http://www.murraystate.edu/strategic-initiatives-plan/index.aspx for more information.

On February 27, 2015, we will present the draft plan to the Board of Regents to seek their feedback and thoughts. Following this meeting, we will take their feedback, along with that provided by our University Community, and provide it to the four committees. They will continue their diligence and fine tune current recommendations. Our goal is to present a finalized plan for the Board of Regents at the June 2015 meeting for action.

The process of developing the Plan is important; however, of equal importance is the implementation of the Plan. The Plan will be finalized by approval by the Board of Regents in June. A component of this final Plan will include timelines for each measure and each outcome will be assigned to an entity (either a specific position, an office, a unit, etc.) that will be responsible for guiding actions to achieve the goals. Annually, a report will be delivered on how we, as a University, are progressing towards our goals. This will be a plan that is used to guide decisions—allocating resources and focus—and it will be referenced frequently—to be clear, it will not sit on the bookshelf.

Thank you for your dedication to Murray State. We have an amazing community that is dedicated to advancing and thriving. The plan we are developing is about harnessing our creative and collective energies in a single direction that will enable Murray State to be truly known as one of the great universities in our nation. This Plan is intended to be aspirational and forward looking, to force us to try new ideas and stretch our imagination. It is not little, nor should it be, as we have much to gain from thinking grand.

Sincerely,

Bob Davies
