London/Dublin Winter 2013

Take “Research in the Global Information Age: A Brit/Irish Perspective” over two weeks in London and Dublin. Find out why we “google” to answer some questions, but not others. Take a look at rare manuscripts and texts, such as the Book of Kells at Trinity College, and predict the future of the book and written information. Visit the British Library and discuss how we store physical things versus how we “store” things online. Talk about controversial topics such as Wikipedia, Wikileaks, copyright, and the right to access information, with the backdrop of the exciting cities of London and Dublin.

Contact Ashley Ireland (aireland@murraystate.edu) for details.

Apply now at www.CCSA.cc or contact the campus representative, Melanie McCallon (mmccallon@murraystate.edu) for help.
Research in the Global Information Age: A Brit/Irish Approach

Interested in learning more about copyright, Google, Twitter, Wikipedia? Want to visit England and Ireland? Travel with MSU students and the CCSA program over winter break!

Winter 2013
Professor Ashley Ireland
Murray State University
aireland@murraystate.edu

$3995 w/ airfare
$2995 w/o airfare

Apply now at www.CCSA.cc

Campus Contact: Melanie McCallon (mmccallon@murraystate.edu)