1. Instructions

1.1. Supervisory Committee

By the time the student has completed eighteen (18) hours of graduate coursework toward the degree, the student must have selected a supervisory committee that will be responsible for advising the student in preparing for comprehensive examinations, evaluating the oral portion of the comprehensive examination, evaluating any portfolio of written work, and/or supervising and evaluating the thesis.

Each supervisory committee should comprise at least three members of the graduate faculty in English, selected according to their ability to examine students over the various literary periods represented in the Common Reading List. One member should be responsible for British Literature to 1500 and British Literature 1500 to 1600; another, British Literature 1600 to 1832 and British Literature 1832 to Present; and another, American Literature to 1870 and American Literature 1870 to Present. Students in the Master of Arts in English with Philosophy as a Cognate Discipline will select a member of the graduate faculty in Philosophy to serve as a fourth member of the supervisory committee. Students in the Master of Arts in English with Modern Languages as a Cognate Discipline will select one member of the graduate faculty in Modern Languages to serve as a fourth member of the supervisory committee.

1.2. Concentrations

Each student will take comprehensive examinations according to the concentration that he or she has chosen.

- Literature: Students pursuing the Master of Arts in English Literature will read all listed works in all six areas of British and American literature--British Literature to 1500, British Literature 1500 to 1600, British Literature 1600 to 1832, British Literature 1832 to Present, American Literature to 1870, and American Literature 1870 to Present.
• English with Philosophy as a Cognate Discipline: Students pursuing the Master of Arts in English with Philosophy as a Cognate Discipline will read all listed works in four of the six areas of British and American literature and will read all listed works in the Philosophy area.

• English with Modern Languages as a Cognate Discipline: Students pursuing the Master of Arts in English with Modern Languages as a Cognate Discipline will read all listed works in four of the six areas of British and American literature and will read all listed works on a Modern Languages list determined by the student in consultation with a member of the graduate faculty in Modern Languages and the graduate coordinator in English.

1.3. Written Examinations

Students may begin to take written comprehensive examinations after completion of eighteen hours toward the degree and after submitting an application to take comprehensive examinations. (The form for applying to take comprehensive examinations can be found on the Murray State University Graduate School website at http://www.murraystate.edu/students/graduate.aspx.)

1.3.1. Written Examination Schedule

Written examinations will be administered three times per year--on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of the last full week in October, the first full week in April, and the last full week in June.

1.3.2. Written Examination Format

Students will write their answers by hand for no more than one hour in response to a choice of questions over each of the areas. At least two questions will be provided for each area, and students will write answers to one of those questions. No books, notes, computers, or other devices other than a pen or pencil are permitted for the examination. Students will be provided with the Common Reading List and paper for their answers.

1.3.3. Written Examination Marking, Reporting, and Retakes

Each examination will be read and evaluated by two members of the graduate faculty in a double-blind process. In the event of a disagreement between the two readers, the examination will be sent to a third reader. Each reader will submit to the graduate coordinator a report indicating whether the student passed the examination (see Forms), and the graduate coordinator will inform the student. Students may retake failed examinations two times; no examination may be taken more than three times.

1.4. Oral Examinations

After successful completion of all areas of the written comprehensive examinations, students must pass an oral examination that covers the reading list appropriate for each concentration.

1.4.1. Oral Examination Schedule

Students will work with their supervisory committees to schedule oral examinations at least one week after notification of passing marks on written examinations and no later than one week before scheduled graduation.

1.4.2. Oral Examination Format

The student will meet with her or his supervisory committee and the graduate coordinator for the oral examination. No books, notes, computers, or other devices will be permitted, although student will be provided with a copy of the reading list. Ten minutes will be devoted to questions and answers over each area; each committee member may ask one follow-up question after all sections have been covered, although each follow-up may take no more than five minutes.

1.4.3. Oral Examination Marking, Reporting, and Retakes

After the student has completed the oral examination session, the faculty members of the supervisory committee will evaluate the student’s performance on the examination and vote whether the student passed the examination. The committee will submit its report to the graduate coordinator using the oral report form (see Forms), and the graduate coordinator will notify the student whether she or he passed the oral examination. Students may retake the oral examination up to two times; no examination may be taken more than three times.
