Recent Winners of the Southeast Regional Collegiate Soils Contest (and contest hosts):

The Southeast Regional Collegiate Soils Contest has been held since the 1960s. Last time Clemson University hosted it in 2002.

2013: West Virginia (at Tennessee Tech University)

2012: Auburn University (at the University of Kentucky)

2011: Virginia Tech (at the West Virginia University)

2010: Virginia Tech (at the University of Georgia)

2009: West Virginia University (at the University of Tennessee—Knoxville)

2008: University of Tennessee—Martin (at Virginia Tech)

2007: Virginia Tech (at Eastern Kentucky University)

2006: University of Kentucky (at Western Kentucky University)

2005: Auburn University (at North Carolina State University)

2004: North Carolina State University (at Auburn University)

2003: University of Georgia (at the University of Tennessee—Martin)

2002: Auburn University (at Clemson University)

2001: Auburn University (at Murray State University)

2000: Clemson University (at Tennessee Tech University)

1999: Virginia Tech (at the University of Kentucky)

1998: Virginia Tech (at the University of Tennessee—Knoxville)

1997: Virginia Tech (at the University of Georgia)
Southeast Region Schools at the National Contest:

The first National Collegiate Soils Contest was held in 1961 at the University of Kentucky in Lexington, KY, and was won by Tennessee Tech University.

2012: Virginia Tech
2010: Virginia Tech
2006: West Virginia
2005: Virginia Tech
2003: Auburn University
1989: Clemson University
1987: Virginia Tech
1980: Auburn University
1979: Auburn University
1978: Auburn University
1961: Tennessee Tech